

Ayesha Miah

Business Development Project Coordinator

Ayesha Miah is Business Development Project Coordinator for the Detroit Regional Partnership (DRP), a leading economic development nonprofit serving the 11-county Detroit Region. In this role she supports the business development team's site selector concierge program as it works with key decision-makers and companies looking to explore the Detroit Region for investment and expansion opportunities. She provides program strategy and event and logistics support as the team engages domestic and international businesses looking to locate in the Region.

Prior to joining the DRP, Miah worked as a government relations specialist at Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit organizing large-scale and community-wide events and managing internal communications. She also previously served as internship coordinator of Michigan State University's (MSU) Detroit InnovateGov program. Miah has a dual bachelor's degree in economics and world politics from MSU and speaks Arabic and Bengali.
