Sarah Gregory

Managing Vice President, Strategic Partnerships and Talent Solutions

Sarah Gregory is Managing Vice President, Strategic Partnerships and Talent Solutions for the Detroit Regional Partnership, a leading economic development nonprofit for the 11-county Detroit Region. In this role, she leads efforts to enhance internal processes, foster strategic partnerships, and drive talent solutions that strengthen the Region's workforce ecosystem.

Gregory oversees programming that provides comprehensive workforce data, customized talent planning, and talent concierge services for companies looking to locate or expand in the Detroit Region. She also collaborates with business leaders to align talent strategies with industry needs, leveraging partnerships across universities, community colleges, and workforce agencies to connect residents with career opportunities. In this role, Gregory also works with state policy leaders to better understand and support economic development activities in Southeast Michigan, ensuring alignment for the state's broader economic goals.

Gregory previously served as Director of Talent Development at the Workforce Intelligence Network (WIN), where she managed industry-aligned talent pipeline initiatives. She also held a quality control role at Michigan Works!, gaining deep expertise in workforce development policy and program administration.
